ONE SAILOR DEAD, FOUR WOUNDED IN BAR BATTLE

E. J. Reebey Of Wilmington Killed By Italian

KNIVES ARE USED

New Year Night Fracas Develops As Result Of Barroom Brawl

E. J. Reebey, who was a coal passer on the U. S. S. Wilmington, is dead from knife wounds and four other sailors from American warcraft in port are more or less seriously injured from knife wounds received in a series of outbreaks that occurred on New Year's night at the Victoria Bar on Chapoo Road and at the Tivoli Bar on Woosung Road when an armed band of Italian sailors, who greatly outnumbered the unarmed Americans, made surprise attacks upon them. No arrests have been made.

The cause of the clash of the Americans and Italians has been traced to a trifling brawl that occurred in the afternoon at the Victoria Bar. As the outcome of a dispute in which one of the faminine bar attendants figured, it is stated that an Italian sailor was beaten by an American.

About 8 o'clock in the evening when nine American sailors were in the Victoria Bar a band of about twenty Italian sailors from the gunboats Sebastiano and Carlotto entered the place. One version of what followed is that quart bottles of beer were ordered by all of the Italians and at a signal pistol shot the bottles were hurled at the unsuspecting Americans. Immediately knives flashed in the hands of the Italians, who swept forward against the Americans. Several shots were fired and the fact that the bullets found lodgment in the walls about four feet from the floor shows that the shooting, though ineffective, was done with sinister intent.

BOTTLES AS WEAPONS

Outnumbered and taken by surprise, the Americans fought with their fists, with bottles snatched from the bar, with chairs and with any weapon that came to hand until they were able to struggle through to the street and beat a retreat with several of their number bleeding from wounds.

After the Americans had fled from the Victoria the band of Italians made their way to the Tivoli Bar where another group of eight Americans were found. An even more serious fracas than that at the Victoria Bar took place at the Tivoli. Two Americans here had remarkable escapes from serious injury. One found himself confronted by an assailant who at a distance of about four feet aimed a revolver at his breast and pulled the trigger. The weapon missed fire and the Americans succeeded in escaping to the street. Another going through the door barely escaped a vicious lunge made at his back with a knife. A heavy pea jacket and the garments underneath were cut from neck to waist, but the sailor was not scratched.

MAKES WAY TO SHIP

Reebey was one of the wounded who made his way back to his ship. He was given medical treatment on the ship, but his condition grew so serious that late at night he was removed to the Shanghai General hospital where it was found that the knife wound in his abdomen had pierced the intestines in eight places. His death occurred at 8:30 o'clock last night.

Following the disturbance all shore liberty was withdrawn yesterday to American sailors. Both the American and Italian naval authorities are making an investigation of the occurrence.

Senator Penrose, Noted Leader, Dead

Sen. Boise Penrose

(Reuter's Service,

New York, Dec. 31.—The death has occurred of the Republican Senator, Mr. Penrose, who was Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Senate.

With the passing of Penrose there disappears one of the most powerful figures in American national politics. Long one of the dictating forces in the Republican party he had been looked upon as the swaying influence at all of the national conventions of recent years. He had been a member of the Republican National Committee since 1904, except for the years 1912 to 1916.

Mr. Penrose was sixty years of age, having been born in Philadelphia November 1, 1860. He took his A. B. at Harvard in 1881, was admitted to the bar two years later and practised law in Philadelphia. He first became actively engaged in politics in 1884, when he was elected a member of the state House of Representatives and became state senator in 1887, serving until 1897. He had been United States Senator from Pennsylvania since 1897.

YANKEE RUGBY GREAT GAME, SAYS BRITISH SOCCER FAN

Reverses Ideas Own Land's 'Rugger' Is Rough After Seeing Contest

FINE TRAINING FOR YOUTH

And Furnishes Plenty Of Pleasing Thrills For The Crowd

BY A BRITISH SOCCER WRITER

(The writer of the following article has been a student of British Professional Football, a writer on the sport, a referee and a football trainer for a number of years and is also a Correspondent of the London Daily Mail. In this article he records his impressions of the grim contest of last Saturday, the first game of the kind that he had witnessed.—Ed.)

SATURDAY'S match between the Marines from Peking and the Shanghai team is indelibly on my mind. Honestly I have never seen anything like it. From the moment when the contest between the two sets of powerful men commenced, to the time when the whistle sounded the "finis" there was excitement, thrill and disappointment to satisfy the most exacting. The large posse of spectators got a sight of a game that, for sheer brutal force, would taking some beating.

British Rugger has been spoken of by those who are not really familiar with it as a rough game in which the participants get well "laid out." The same charge is often levelled at the professional games which constitute the League Matches of English Football, But an elementary knowledge of the rules and an understanding of their correct interpretations enables one to realise that what appears roughness, is frequently nothing but the exercising of the privileges which the laws of the association permit. It will be a sorry day for the British nation if its principal sports ever become devoid of those encounters which require a certain amount of courage, physical and moral, and both soccer and rugger at present contain the demand for fearlessness.

IS EXACTING SPORT

But it is questionable whether there is a single branch of big sport, other than boxing, which appears to allow and to require the exercising of such force as American Rugger, to judge by the contest of last Saturday. All the players were out to do their very utmost to secure the victory each wanted, and which each team was confident of pulling off. The confidence was something to admire even as the energy and persistency, which were marked characteristics of all the participants, were so apparent all through the game.

I was told that it was an uneven struggle, that the local eleven was outclassed by the visitors. Perhaps they were. It seemed to a layman such as myself, not familiar with this type of game, that the Marines from Peking were getting home more than the visitors, but beyond this it did not seem to me that the Shanghai team was outplayed. It may have been and, from the score, was outclassed in the securing of points; but in pluck, endurance and persistence the men who represented Shanghai were equal to those who upheld the honor of Peking.

It seemed to me that it was a contest in which physical force played a prominent part. It was frequently a case of shoulder to shoulder. Down went the heads of the two respective teams and into other they went. It was glorious to watch and one frequently found oneself wondering why more men were not laid out. Some of them were rendered hors de combat, but the stoppages did not seem to worry the players or the spectators. When one man left the filed through being incapacitated, another came out and took his place. I have never seen this done in English football, and indeed in the League Games it would not be permitted. But then, there is not the same tendency for accidents to occur as there would be in the case of matches played like that of Saturday. It was some football, and I would not have missed the chance of seeing it for a great deal. No Britisher, fond of sport, has lived until he has seen a game like that played between the Marines from Peking and Shanghai.

America's Latest Aerial War Weapon As Destructive And Novel As Tanks

J. M. Larsen — Maj General Mason Patrick

An armored military aeroplane, designed for attacking infantry either entrenched or in the open and, for this task, equipped with thirty machine guns capable of firing 3,000 shots in four seconds, is America's latest weapon of destruction. The plane, invented by J. M. Larsen, recently flew from Hicksville, L. I., to Washington, D. C., where it was inspected by chief aero officers of the army and navy. Its speed, more than 140 miles per hour, and its mobility, which has been compared with that of an attack single-seater, make it an almost impossible target from the ground. For defense two of its thirty machine guns are mounted on each side of the pilot's seat, ready to greet an attacking plane. It is known as the "JL-12 Attack Plane" and is a type in advance of the latest foreign all-metal planes. The plane is a monoplane, with a 40-foot wing span, and is 32 feet long. It has a 400-horse-power Liberty motor capable of 140 miles an hour. All vital parts are protected with armor 3-16 of an inch thick. The guns are so distributed that they can be fired from any direction. The illustration shows the plane. In the center, left to right, J. L. Larsen, of Chicago, and Brigadier-General Mitchell, observing the details of the plane. Below J. M. Larsen and Major-General Mason Patrick, new Chief of the Army Air Services, inspecting the "flying tank."

HOLLAND GETS CABLE RIGHTS ON YAP ISLAND

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Jan. 1.—The heads of the delegations of the Big Five and Holland have agreed to Holland as well as the United States and Japan receiving cable rights in the island of Yap.

A tentative six-Power treaty embodying this arrangement and replacing the Japanese-American Yap treaty has been drafted and provides for the allotment of the Yap-Guam cable to the United States, the Yap-Shanghai cable to Japan and the Yap-Menado cable to Holland. Britain and Italy have accepted this arrangement with reservations, Britain indicating that British interests might also desire in the future certain rights in Yap and Italy claiming an interest in one of the existing cables there.

It was later indicated in American quarters that the provisions of the Japanese-American agreement giving the United States cable and wireless rights in Yap would be incorporated in a separate Japanese-American treaty.

Washington, Dec. 31.—The five principal Powers and Holland have agreed to an arrangement whereby Holland in addition to Japan and the United States have cable rights in the island of Yap.

CHINA MAY ASK ANGLO-AMERICAN AID ON SHANTUNG

(Trans-Pacific Public Ledger—China Press Exclusive Service)

Washington, Jan. 2.—Wang Chung-hui in speaking to newspaper men declared, "we do not think we can make more concessions in Shantung than we have made and the best solution will be for the Conference to settle the question."

In connection with the Shantung question it is expected that China will ask the United States and Great Britain to take part in the negotiations after the naval program is disposed of. Hanihara asserted that Japan does not wish to have America and Great Britain take part in the Shantung discussions and he declared that Japan will not agree to have the question dealt with by the Conference because the Conference was not called for the purpose of arbitrating between two nations or to place judgment on nations.

Hanihara added that Japan had asked the Chinese delegates for another meeting to be held as soon as final instructions are received from Tokio.

Wang Chung-hui declared that the Chinese people are dissatisfied with action taken at the Conference thus far.

Washington Conference Farce From China's Point Of View Says Tang Shao-yi

Chief Actors Those Who Have Selfish Interests To Serve, Declares Finance Minister Of Canton Government

By Orrin Keith

THE triumvirate which has long directed the efforts of the Constitutionalist Government at Canton consists of Sun Yat-sen, Wu Ting-fang and Tang Shao-yi. Sun is now leading the armies of the Southern provinces against the warriors of the North; Wu is the head of affairs in Canton; but Tang is enjoying a bucolic life on his estate at the old ancestral home in Hong Shan. Much capital has been made of the absence of Tang from Canton by those who are antipathetic toward the Southern government. There is frequent reference to his "desertion of Sun Yat-sen," of his "disguest with the whole movement," etc.

So general is the approval of the Canton Government in Canton itself that it seemed desirable to discuss the situation with this ex-adherent and discover its weaknesses. It is not an easy task to reach him. The trip involves a motorboat journey of several hours from Macao; several more hours by chair; a night in a Chinese village; and a last lap in a ricksha before we arrive at Tang Ka. But it is delightful country. Lack of water makes it unsuitable for agriculture so it is sparsely populated and it is possible to enjoy for once in China the open air, the hills and the sea without the disturbing elements which result from overcrowded humanity.

Once at Tang Ka and welcomed to the hospitable home of Tang Shao-yi, the difficulties of the journey are forgotten. Here the Chinese Cincinnatus, resting after his long years of public service; first as an official in the Manchu regime, the only living man who has acted as Master of Ceremonies in the ancient worship by the Emperor at the Altar of Heaven, the first Prime Minister of the infant republic, and since then one of the faithful band which has striven against immeasurable odds to preserve and establish that republic in spite of the machinations of those who would strangle it, returns to the home of his father and delves in the ancestral soil. Not that Tang Shao-yi has returned to farming in any real sense. True he wears the baggy pantaloons strapped in at the ankle, the rough coat and the unshapen hat of the yokel, and wields the pick and the spade with the enthusiasm of the amateur, but his farming is all in a vast garden which rambles over the hills and the valleys back of Tang Ka, a garden which is quite evidently the luxury of a wealthy man rather than the support of a laboring one. This garden is Tang's pride and it was in one of its many little shelter houses that we sat to discuss what was passing in the world outside.

The Washington Conference was first disposed of. "It is a farce," said Mr. Tang, "for the chief actors are those who have selfish interests to serve in the Far East. How can China hope for any good from it?"

"But the Anglo-Japanese Alliance has been killed. China has desired that for many years. Is not that at least one good result?"

"But now they have a four-power alliance. Four nations instead of two. That is worse."

We had not yet had the terms of the Quadruple agreement so that Tang's judgment was based upon the preliminary reports and may well have been modified in the light of later disapatches which showed that this treaty was not an alliance in any sense and that it made no mention of China.

"What is going to happen to the Peking Government?"

"It will go to pieces," he said, "and then Tsao Kun will put in another dummy as president or take the office himself. Chang Tso-lin will support the new arrangement if he can be vice-president. They will at least keep up the semblance of a government in Peking so they can handle the revenues and sell China's birthright to any nation that will pay money to them."

"What of the Canton Government, Mr. Tang? Have you severed your relations with it?"

"I certainly have not," he replied emphatically. "I am Minister of Finance in the Government and am in constant touch with its activities. As long as its only financial support is from the Provincial Government there is no work there for me to do. The only matter of importance was a negotiation with the foreign banks over the balance left by the previous government. This had already been taken up by Dr. Wu Ting-fang before I took office. Therefore it was best for him to continue the negotiations. As soon as it is possible to finance the Constitu-

BREAKDOWN OF NAVAL PLAN AT CONFERENCE BRINGS GLOOM TO U. S.

No Attempt Being Made At Washington To Conceal Chagrin Of Government Over Defeat Of Great Purpose To Bring End To Ship Competition Brought About By Stand France Has Taken

BRITISH-FRENCH DELEGATES CLASH

Balfour Asserts France Does Not Want Submarine For Defensive Purposes But Has Conjured Up War At Britain's Doorway, The British Channel

(Trans-Pacific Public Ledger— China Press Exclusive Service)

Washington, Jan. 1.—The breakdown of the integral part of the naval limitation program leaves Washington in the deepest gloom. No attempt is being made to conceal the chagrin of the American Government at the defeat of the great purpose to terminate naval competition, for it is realised that the French refusal means unlimited competition in the building of submarines and submarine auxiliaries.

While the Root resolutions that have been adopted in principle forbidding the use of submarines against merchantmen mitigate present results the French delegates have intimated strongly to newspaper men that France will not accept the resolutions until they are acepted by some future conference that will include all nations.

The debate on the question amounted to a sensation and was marked by acrid passages at arms between French and British delegates. In concluding a statement on the question Balfour said bitterly, "We should therefore have the melancholy spectacle of a conference called for the limitation of armament resulting in a vast increase of the very weapon which the most civilised elements of all civilised countries have condemned."

Balfour charged that the French do not want submarines for defensive purposes, but have conjured up a war in the British Channel at the very door of Great Britain. He gave public notice that if a great fleet is to be built near Britain's shores which necessarily would be a sinister menace, Britain would be obliged to refuse to recognise any kind of limitation of auxiliaries to meet the situation.

Continuing he insisted that French submarines were intended to destroy commerce and added that they couldn't be intended for any other purpose. Sarraut disputed these assertions with considerable asperity and he retorted that France had not protested against giving to Britain an overwhelming superiority of capital ships.

In the course of a statement by Schanzer he said, "We will not attempt to hide the fact that the naval program announced from France gives us serious preoccupations from the viewpoint of economic sacrifices which may follow for Italy as well and from the viewpoint of political consequences it may produce."

(Trans-Pacific Public Ledger—Exclusive To The China Press)

Washington, January 1.—Only the resolution outlawing the use of the submarine against merchant ships concerning which French, Japanese and Italian delegates are awaiting instructions from home now remains before the virtual conclusion of discussions of the naval program and the way is thus cleared for the Far Eastern question.

The high tide of feeling aroused against the French has provoked Saraut to voice a protest in which he resents the suspicions awakened against France's motives. He declared if these attacks continue France had better withdraw from the conference.

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Dec. 31.—The communique regarding the Anglo-French incident at yesterday's proceedings in the Naval Committee shows that Admiral de Bon characterised the article criticised by Lord Lee as a monstrosity and formally repudiated it in the name of the French Navy.

M. Sarraut similarly disavowed it and confuted the newspapers' criticism that France was displaying an imperialistic and militaristic spirit.

BALFOUR TO SAIL

Washington, Dec. 31.—Mr. Balfour and Lord Lee are sailing for home on January 14, leaving Sir Auckland Geddes to wind up remaining Conference matters.

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Jan. 1.—It is evident that the Conference is drawing to a close. The delegations, one after another, are announcing the dates of their departure. Two more plenary sessions, dealing with the naval and the Far Eastern questions respectively, are expected to clear the decks.

The naval experts have still some minor details to finish, like the establishment of a standard system of measuring tonnage and scrapping methods and the conversion of merchantmen into cruisers in time of war.

It is anticipated that the various naval decisions will be put into some kind of five-Power treaty.

Should it be found impossible to embody the decisions regarding China in treaty form, the Conference will probably make a general declaration as regards China's territorial integrity.

CHINESE INSISTENT

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 2.—With the disposal of most of the naval questions, Sino-Japanese matters are coming to the fore again in Washington. It is stated that the Chinese delegates have begun conversations with Mr. Hughes on the subject of the Twenty-One Demands Treaty, insisting on the necessity for this and resulting questions being settled now.

Dr. Wang Chung-hui maintains that, as these demands infringe America's open door policy and nullify Treaty agreements and as the United States in formal notes made protesting reservation as far as the Japanese demands infringe or curtail American rights or interests, a continued silence would amount to acquiescence to the Japanese pretensions.

It is believed that China will refuse to sign any treaty unless a satisfactory Shantung solution is found. It is regarded as extremely unlikely, therefore, that

MAIL FOR STATES OUT TOMORROW ON SILVER STATE

Mails for America, to go by the Admiral Line steamer Silver State, will be closed at the United States Post Office tomorrow morning, registered matter at 9 o'clock and ordinary at 10 o'clock.

The Silver State, which is bringing about fifty first class passengers to Shanghai from Hongkong and Manila, is due to arrive at the Standard Oil Company's wharf at about 10 o'clock this morning. The ship sails at 1 p.m. tomorrow and the tender with outgoing passengers will leave the Customs jetty at noon.

The Silver State is due in Seattle on January 20.

The steamer Taiyo Maru arrived here the evening of December 31, bringing a small consignment of mail from the United States. No letter mail was included in the shipment, which consisted of about 80 sacks of parcels post matter, mostly Christmas packages. Parcel post notices will be distributed by this afternoon.

the Senate will ratify any agreements unless the Shantung question is solved. Great pressure is being brought to bear upon Japan and the outlook for a settlement in the next few days is described as promising. The recent Chinese threats to bolt from the Conference are deprecated.

Meanwhile the British and American press generally emphasise much that has already been achieved, though the Hearst Press is still bitter against "the cunning attempt of England and Japan to lure Uncle Sam into world entanglements." It is pointed out from Washington that, whereas a few months ago people there were talking about a Japanese-American war, today the talk has practically disappeared and there is much better Japanese-American feeling.

(U.S. Navy Radio Through Reuter)

Washington, Dec. 31.—It is understood that the Americans have withdrawn their objection to the Japanese interpretation of the Quadruple Treaty that it does not include their homeland, and it is expected that the interpretative notes will be exchanged next week.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Dec. 30.—Thirty-eight members of the Chinese Delegation to Washington, including Mr. Lo Wen-kan—the new Vice-Minister of Justice—left San Francisco to return to China on December 17. The technical experts from the various Ministries were in this party.

WHEN DOES HSU QUIT HIS POST? DR. WU ASKS YEN

A second telegram from Dr. Wu Ting-fang to Dr. W. W. Yen, Minister of Foreign Affairs at Peking, setting forth Canton's conditions for the discussion of peace, has been received by the Kuo Wen News Agency.

The exchange of telegrams follows the receipt recently of a message by Dr. Wu, from former American Secretary of State Robert Lansing, now advisor to the Chinese delegation at Washington, in which he urged unity in China.

Dr. Wu replied that Canton was willing to discuss peace terms if Hsu Shih-chang would vacate the presidency and if cancellation of the Twenty-One Demands was secured. Dr Yen was forwarded a copy of the wire and telegraphed Dr. Wu to the effect that the first of these conditions had been fulfilled by the president's circular telegram and the second by the action of the Washington delegates. He asked proposals. Dr. Wu's reply was as follows:

"Dr. W. W. Yen, Peking. Your telegram 18th received. I replied Mr. Robert Lansing this Government's conditions re adjustment present differences between North and South were sincere. Endeavor on the part of Peking for an eventual cancellation of 21 Demands of Japan and resignation of Hsu Shih-chang from illegal tenure as president of China. The action of your delegation who have only perfunctorily brought up 21 Demands without achieving any result cannot be said to have fulfilled one condition while their action in direct negotiations on Shantung contrary to the will of the nation is really in contradiction to that condition. I note that you interpret Mr. Hsu Shih-chang's circular telegram of December 4 as fulfilling my other condition—that is his resignation. Please inform me date on which it takes effect. Wu Ting-fang."

REPUTATION—Something that you don't have to lose before you realize its value.

REPUTATION—worth as much to any man as to every woman—and that's a good deal.

Washington Conference Farce From China's Point Of View Says Tang Shao-yi

tionalist Government independently there will be work for me and I shall go the moment I am needed. There is absolutely no truth in the report that I have deserted the Southern movement nor that I am displeased with what the others have done. There are many things in which I think some of the younger men go too fast. The wide streets, for instance, they forget the hot sun in summer and the shelter which the old narrow streets afforded. But they mean right and they will learn with experience. With the movement itself I am wholly in sympathy and will take my part in it the moment there is work for me to do."

"You do not disapprove of Dr. Sun's Northern expedition, then."

"Dr Sun's Northern expedition is an absolute necessity. It is not likely that it will be able to reach and take Peking, but it was forced upon us by the Peking government's mandates and proclamations to the world that China was united under its rule. China is not united under the rule of the clique which holds the power in Peking and never will be. It is necessary that the rest of the world should know this; that they should know that the country south of the Yangtsze at least is firm in its determination to establish a real democratic government in China."

"What if Wu Pei-fu should swing over to Dr. Sun? Would not that make it possible for you to go on to Peking?"

"Wu Pei-fu will not do that. He hasn't got the backbone. He will remain neutral and then make the best of whatever happens. I know him well and he will never take up either cause unless he is forced to."

"But without him do you think it is possible for the Southern armies to cross the Yangtsze?"

"It is hardly probable and I don't know that we want to. We can control all of the provinces south of the Yangtsze and establish a real republic here. The people will not stand for more civil war at present and we shall have to let the North go its own way for the time being. Then, when the people there get tired of military domination, they will throw off the yoke of the Peking crowd and join us and China will again be united."

"Will it be under Sun Yat-sen?"

"That we cannot tell at this time. Dr. Sun himself says he is a revolutionary leader and not an administrator. No one who knows Dr. Sun questions his sincerity. He is absolutely honest and when the time comes, and success again comes to the revolution, it is quite probable that he will retire as unselfishly as he did in 1912, and turn over the adminsitrative work to others."

"Do you think it will be possible to get the powers to withdraw their recognition and support from Peking?"

"That is out of the question. There are too many of them that want just such a government in China as they have now at Peking. It makes it easier for them to rob China of her resources and her opportunities. It is hardly probable that they can be persuaded to withdraw recognition under such circumstances. Our hope is that we can bring home to them to see the injustice of taking the revenue from the southern provinces and turning it over to the Peking militarists to use in waging war upon the very southern provinces from which it comes.

"I mean by that that we may be able to show them that the only right course is to recognise the Peking Government only over that part of the country where there is some shadow of actual Peking control. If we can just get them to recognise the actual facts in the matter—that China is divided into two great sections, and that only one of those is even nominally under the authority of the Peking government—and then shape their course accordingly, we shall be in a fair way to a settlement of China's internal troubles. The recognition of the Constitutionalist Government at Canton would follow naturally and its jurisdiction over the southern provinces would be acknowledged. We could then soon organise a real republic in these provinces, disband the troops, proceed with our internal development, devote our attention to industry and commerce, and bring South China at least into its proper place in the economic and political life of the Far East. And I believe that the North would soon fall into line. The people there would see the difference between democratic government and the despotism of militarists and would rise and drive them out. With the people of the North free to determine their own government, they would want a united China again and the Republic of China would at last be a reality instead of a name."

"But if the Powers recognised two governments in China that would be doing the very thing they have repeatedly pledged themselves not to do—violating the territorial integrity of China."

"That pledge was against the impairment of the integrity by other powers. It was never directed toward the separation of China into two sections by the Chinese themselves. And that condition actually exists. The Powers say they do not recognise the Canton Government. But their officials are constantly dealing with our officials. They have to: it is the only way they can get anything done down here: there's no use to go to Peking about it. Now even the Portuguese Minister has had to come down here from Peking to discuss the Macao matter. The foreign consuls are constantly corresponding with our government and our officials sign passports and other necessary commercial documents which the foreign governments accept. No pledge would be broken and the Chinese people would be far better off if the Powers would legally accept the situation that actually exists and recognise the actual government of the South as a member of the family of nations. If they really want to bring about peace and order in China that is the quickest and the easiest way."

PROCRASTINATION

"The thief of time" has robbed many families of the needed benefits of life insurance. Sickness or accident has taken away a father or a son who has been his family's chief support, and the opportunity for life insurance has gone.

"If only he had taken out that policy, as he intended doing"—is too often the vain lament of the unfortunate widow or children.

Life insurance IS a necessity, but it must be safe and honest insurance.

Anti-Opium Body Levels Charges Against Japanese

Conclusive Evidence That Powerful Smuggling Band Is Operating At Tsingtao

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, December 30.— The following information is circulated by the International Anti-Opium Association, Peking:

From information recently recently received by this association there seems to be but little change in the opium and morphia conditions in Shantung. The Maritime Customs returns for the September quarter of 1921 show an import into Kiaochao of 36 piculs of Persian opium and 1.20 of Taiwan opium, or approximately 5,000 lbs. This is the largest since 1913 when the amount was 55 piculs. In 1919 only 7½ piculs were imported and in 1920 none whatever entered.

It is significant that this relatively large importation should synchronise with the enormous importation into Dairen in the March quarter of this year, both occurring at a time when a great decrease was expected owing to the surrender of the Japanese Government monopoly. The importation of opium, however, is by no means the gratest evil, for smuggling is being carried on now on an even larger scale than formerly.

There is conclusive evidence that a powerful smuggling gang exists at Tsingtau. The opium comes from Vladivostok, made into 4-lb. balls and is called "Man's Head Opium." In Tsingtau a certain quantity is sold direct to the Japanese, but the bulk is handed over to the Wen Ming Company—Japanese—which has several places in the settlement, where it is retailed locally. This company simply distribntes, all risks being taken by the Tsingtau gang. The selling price increases according to the distance from the port. A 4-lb. ball sells at Tsingtau for $325; Tsinanfu, $240; Pukou $290; Nanking, $290.

This is not foreign opium, for the price is far too low for Indian, Persian or Turkish opium. Neither is it, strictly speaking, Chinese opium, but the product of a field developed during the last few years, namely, Northern Manchuria and Siberia. Minor officials in Tsingtau, both Japanese and Chinese, are reported to be in the pay of this gang.

With regard to morphia and heroin the condition is decidedly worse. In spite of the frequent publishing of the Tsinan blacklist of morphia sellers, who at the time of the issue of the "Peking and Tientsin Times Anti-Opium Supplement" in 1920 numbered over forty Japanese dealers, the trade persists. The blacklist is just as black, but secret distribution is much more extensive. It has been estimated that over one hundred Chinese private houses in the Tsinan Settlement and suburbs supply morphia. Even matsheds in obscure corners of railway yards are used in Tsinan and along the line for giving morphia injections.

This Association has received reliable information that in Tsinan it is possible to buy as much as 20 lbs. of morphia or heroin at one transaction. Morphia is sold at $880. per lb. and heroin at $790.

As of old, the Chinese authorities lament their inability to cope with the situation owing to the trade being in the hands of the Japanese.

By no means does all the morphia coming into Honan and Shansi come through Tientsin. Probably the bulk of it goes through Tsingtau or Tsinan. The problem which up to the present finds no solution is, how does this morphia leave Japan? No laws could be more stringent than those of Japan with regard to the export of morphia and heroin, for these cannot be exported without a permit from the Governor of the Prefecture where manufactured, or from the Minister of the Interior. Yet eight-tenths of this morphia bears the labels of the Osaka manufactory. It seems obvious that a firm such as this, whose produce to the extent of almost 300 lb. was recently seized at Tientsin, could be dealt with so severely as to make it unprofitable for them to repeat the offence.

The Vladivostok opium smuggling is confirmed in The Leader today the Dalta News Agency having supplied the information that a smuggling combine has been discovered involving several high officials.

padded. When the teams lined out I wondered what on earth they were wearing such garb for, but when the ball was started I no longer marvelled that the costumes were as they were but I thought that if ever I had to take part in such a game I would wear a piece of one of our superdreadnoughts inside my jersey. But the dress gave one an idea of the physical proportions of the men participating in the struggle for points. Their pace was at times wonderful, while the way in which big men nipped in and out with the ball in their arms was a source of wonderment to one whose life has been mainly spent in watching, criticising and playing the prosaic English soccer.

Equally surprising it was, too, to find that so few of the players appeared to get hurt. Some of them were brought down heavily, but, whether it was the protection which they wore, or the softness of the ground after the rain, one could not say, but it was a perpetual wonder to me that there were not deaths.

My, but men must be keen on their national pastime to play such a game? It required skill, it demanded thought and ingenuity, it wanted organisation on the part of the chiefs of the teams, and it was absolutely necessary that the men playing should be trained to a nicety. A game of that kind of football could not be played by those who regard the body as something to be trifled with. The mind, too, would have to be clear. If American Rugby Football demanded nothing else it would require that all participating in it should be in the pink of condition. Like English Soccer, it is a game for young men, and if the future generations of the United States are brought up to play this hard and fast game in the manner in which the Marines from Peking and the local men representing Shanghai played on Saturday, America will continue to be a nation of powerful influence. Perhaps it explained why the heavyweight champion of the world was a national of the States and why the greatest Republic of the world possesses most of the championships in the fistic art.

TAKE DECISIONS DOCILELY

While play was in progress every player was alert and tense. They were all on the qui vive to secure the ball. When it was shot out from between the legs of a player immediately the field became a seething mass of dashing humanity which was at once abruptly ended at the sound of the whistle. And here one could not help but remark on the very noticeable and significant fact that there was no questioning of the Umpire's decisions. Whether or not he made mistakes (I have yet to find the umpire, who does not), I cannot say, but to judge from the sportsmanlike manner in which his rulings were accepted, without demur, the game was a model. Perhaps the chief jarring feature of soccer matches played on the big grounds of Great Britain, and, to be frank—occasionally here in Shanghai on Saturday afternoons — is the growing and increasing tendency to question the judgment of the honest official, who is in charge of the game. Saturday's match in this respect should be copied and a lesson from it acquired.

In a game obviously where rougher tactics are permitted and where harder knocks are given, there was not a single exhibition of temper or, as far as one could gauge, not one of those unpleasant episodes between players or referee, that are apparently on the ascendancy in English soccer at home and out here.

Sport is sport and spectators and participants in the games must give credit to the man in charge of the game for being capable and honest, and for doing his best to interpret aright the laws of the contest he is controlling. The best of referees are apt to err and not to see all that a player or spectator imagines should be seen. Perhaps the officials in Saturday's struggle between the Marines and the local team were perfect in their awards. At any rate, the players were as perfect as they could be in the attitude they adopted towards the decisions given and this must always remain a striking feature of the match, the first of its kind that some present had ever seen played.

The better team won. The Marines were faster and their team work seemed better organised than that of their opponents. This was unquestionably due to the larger amount of practice together of the Marines. If the local team had only had the opportunities for practice and training that the visitors have had, the contest would have proved more even and the result would probably have been different, for the local men revealed latent talent that left no doubts as to their ability to shine in the noble pastime in which they were playing so fine a part.

THE RAW, damp, clinging fog of London's Limehouse was his shroud but around the supple body of Laura Figlan a profligate world wrapped its finest silks. Do you think a good reputation??

SHE changed admirers as often as she changed her gown. Who? The wickedest woman in Europe—and the most sorrowful. It's all about reputation.

BRIGADE STARTS OFF THE SEASON WITH FIVE FIRES

The Shanghai fire department established a record for the number of calls answered in one year when they recorded 405 for 1921 or 50 more than the previous mark made in 1917. Then they started on a busy series of calls that promises a higher record for 1922.

The Hongkew division answered the first call of the New Year, Sunday morning, a police report of a fire to the West of Kiangwan Road. The brigade found on arrival a straw hut well burnt out. There was little to do except protect property.

Two other calls were received on New Year's day, one for the Yangtzepoo division at 5 p.m. to a vacant lot where bereaved relatives of a deceased Chinese was burning his clothing, to prevent contagion, and another for the Hongkew Division at 8:30 to a chicken and duck shop on Woosung Road. The latter fire was fairly under control upon arrival of the brigade, so that it was soon extinguished.

Yesterday's fires numbered two. The first gave the Central division a lively five minuter when a mat shed Joss House at 852 and 854 Avenue Edward VII took light and endangered the Hudford Garage on one side and some dwellings on the other. The only damage suffered was to the Joss house. The second call came at 7:50 p.m. for the Hongkew division to 42 Purdon Road where another mat shed, attached to a Chinese dwelling took flame from fireworks. The damage was trifling.

TROTSKY HITS AT JAPS IN SPEECH ON SOVIET ARMY

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 1.—A Moscow telegram to the Observer says that in a speech at the Soviet Congress, Trotsky stated that the army had been reduced from over 5,000,000 to 1,300,000. He defended its retention by complaining that Poland, Roumania and Finland were sending bands across the frontier and complained against what he termed the new Japanese invasion of the territory of the Far Eastern Republic. This, he said, was the best answer to Mr. Henderson and other British democrats who urged that they should evacuate the Red army from Georgia and other republics. The moment they did so, Trotsky claimed, they would be invaded as the Far Eastern Republic had been.

CARPENTIER TO FIGHT COOK IN LONDON JAN. 12

London, Dec. 1.—Major Wilson wires from Paris definite arrangements for the Cook-Carpentier contest. It has now been decided to stage the fight at the Albert Hall on the nearest available date to Jan. 12, and this time Carpentier has deposited £1,000 as a guarantee for his appearance in the ring on the date fixed.

Carpentier has been really ill, and the rash on his face has not yet permitted him to shave his beard. He is, however, rapidly recovering and on Dec. 2 he will leave France for England. From that date he will train at Maidenhead, and go through the whole of his preparation in England. Major Wilson is returning immediately, and will confer with Mr. Charles Lucas, the manager of George Cook, who, of course, has yet to agree to the new arrangements. Although these postponements have been detrimental to Cook, it is felt that he will consent to meet Carpentier on the new date.

FEARON DANIELS BASKET BALLERS TO PLAY TONIGHT

Fearon Daniels basketball five, the youngest team in the Foreign League, which started far behind the other nine teams of the union, from the very bottom of the standings, will fight tonight with the boys of the Shanghai Public School for a place of honor in the league standings. Should the younger team win, they will climb from seventh position to a tie for fourth and force the School five down to their own seventh place.

The Fearon Daniel five, with Kay, Sheldon, Deanison, Nichols and Patzlaff have one of the best teams in the league, and after they get together on signals and teamwork will be rushing the league leaders for the topmost positions. The School too is strong and will offer a fine defensive. The game tonight is scheduled on the "Y" floor commencing at 9 o'clock.

Football Club Wins New Year's Game With Xaviers

Dissapoint Spectators When They Finish With Score At But 2-0

BY "WHISTLE"

With the Club turning out a strong paper team and St. Xavier's playing two odd men, it looked like a cinch for the former, but actually, they were lucky to scramble home by a 2-0 win. It was the poorest performance they have given so far, and they were lucky it was not the Engineers or Rocs they were up against.

Isherwood was not playing, but Coulcher appeared again and Waked pretty fit and lively after his spell of illness. Johnson and Jackson were not out for the school and they were badly missed.

The game opened scrappily and with the wind the Club got the ball down, Goldman shooting with a back kick, but there was nothing to it, a nice move by Campbell and Laurie Smith culminated in a fine pass by the latter, only Coulcher did not quite get it putting behind.

The school broke away and looked dangerous, but two efforts went wide, Tordy shooting behind and Favacho sending over. Even pressure followed both sides missing by inches, Goldman put a hard rising one just over the corner, and a low one from Favacho brought Phillips to the ground to save it.

CULCHER SCORES FIRST

The only goal of the first half came from one of Laurie Smith's passes, Goldman had the goalie beaten but Oliveiros intervened, Coulcher picked up the rebound very smartly and put the Club one up. For the rest of the half St. Xavier's pressed and once, a miskick by Robertson gave a fine chance, but Phillips saved.

With a following wind the school looked like equalising, but Tordy and Favacho lacked support, and the odds were too heavy, a free kick just outside the penalty area gave Oliveiros a chance but he put over, and Phillips was called upon to save good ones from Tordy and Savacho a dull spell followed. Favacho broke it by putting in a peach, it was too good for Phillips to gather cleanly, and he had to knell to it before he got it clear.

Exchanges ran even until a corner from Laurie Smith found Seredkin up, who placed just inside the upright, keeping up the Clubs reputation for leaving their half back line to score half their goals.

SCHOOL PLAYED BEST

This settled matters and though the Xaviers played hard, nothing

mush else occurred excepting a run through in good style by Coulcher, loosing a moment too late, the ball caught the goalie's foot and deflected.

The best football was on the school's side. Oliveiros, Schneider and Hittsack played a fine defensive game and Tordy backed by Favacho deserved more results in the forward line. Goldman and Coulcher played football alright, and so did Schaffer, but most of the other Club players ran round generally. Laurie Smith improved in the second half, but was far too slow in getting rid of the ball and waited for the heavier defense to move him—which they did.

It was a clean game and Mr. Clifford had little difficulty in refereeing to the satisfaction of both sides.

S. F. C. 2nd, 5; JEWISH 0.

The Football Club beat the Jewish Recreation club in their friendly match on the Police field yesterday, by combination and passing tactics. The score was 5-0. During the first half the Jewish boys held their opponents to a 1-0 score, mainly by the efforts of their goalie, Whiteman and their Back, Katz. In the second half, however the Club pressed faster, and the two Jewish goal guards were overwhelmed, with a lack of support from their team mates.

RANGERS 6, NIEH CHI KUEI 2

The rangers won out on a friendly game yesterday over the Nieh Chi Kuei Public School. The score was 6-2. H. Nash counted four goals for the winners, and Morcher and Jacobs added one each. Play was fairly even in spite of the score. The game was ranked by spectators as just a trifle better than a second division league match, and not quite as good as a first division event. At half time the score was 2-1. The school was pressing constantly but their shooting was not effective.

Hold Russian Sailor Following Altercation With Chinese Soldier

The Bureau of Foreign Affairs has taken up with the Commander of the Russian yacht "Admiral Zavolko" an incident involving a Chinese soldier and a Russian sailor which occurred at the Arsenal last Christmas day.

The sailor, a fireman, is said to have accosted the soldier, who was on duty, got into an altercation with him and took away his bayonet, damaging it. The matter was brought to the attention of the Foreign Office by General Ho Feng-ling, the local Defense Commissioner, and Mr. S. K. Chen took it up with the yacht's captain. The fireman is being detained in custody pending the settlement of the matter.

TELLS OF NEED FOR COOPERATION AMONG SCHOOLS

Professor Roxby of Liverpool University addressed the B. W. A. Literary Section and its guests at a meeting held yesterday afternoon in the Carlton Cafe.

Taking as his topic "Some Impressions of the Educational Position in China," the speaker presented some of the conclusions reached during his recent trip as a member of the visiting Educational Commission. There is great need, he said, for more co-operation between the various missionary bodies which have established schools and colleges in the Far East.

"The most advanced province from the educational standpoint which I visited was Shansi," Professor Roxby said. "Here Governor Yen has labored for ten years to put educational advantages within reach of the common people. Fifty percent of the villages have primary schools, 7,000 temples having been taken over for this purpose. In Taiyuanfu, a city with a population of 100,000, there are at least 20,000 students."

Professor Roxby asked that foreigners display more sympathy toward China's student class in its gigantic task of welding together the civilizations of East and West.

At the close of the address the speaker was given a vote of thanks.

St. James' Alumni Have Reunion Tea

The St. James' Alumni Association held a New Year's reunion and tea in the parlors of the Chinese Y.M.C.A. on Sunday afternoon, when some twenty odd members were present. Guests of honor included Mr. S. K. Tsao, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A.; Mr. W. W. Lockwood, Mr. J. H. Geldart and Mr. Y. E. Hsiao.

Mr. C. H. Burke Yui of Dung Chi University, president of the Association, presided at the meeting and in his welcoming address expressed the hope that members may keep up their friendships and maintain their ties with their Alma Mater. Mr. S. K. Tsao made the principal speech of the occasion, telling of the need for social reforms and emphasising the fact that a young man, unless he lives a strong intellectual and moral life cannot hope to aid in such reforms.

Refreshments were served after the speaking and there were several pleasing entertainment features.

Business Outlook In U. S. Improves

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Dec. 31.—The Federal Reserve Board, reviewing trade conditions, says that the year end reports, compared with those of December, 1920, demonstrate a continued upward movement. The holiday trade was 10 percent above that of last year.

Extreme caution in granting bank credits continues.

British Dominions Asked To Give Aid To Fund

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 31.—As President of the Sir Arthur Pearson Memorial Fund, Lady Pearson makes a warm appeal to the British Dominions on behalf of the permanent endowment of all the charities for which Sir Arthur labored during his lifetime. The Fund is to be divided as follows:

One-third to St. Dunstan's, which trains and makes self-supporting those blinded in the service of the Empire.

One-third to the National Institute for the Blind, which amongst its other numerous activities, is the chief publishing house in the Empire for embossed books for the blind, and

One-third to all other recognised blind charities in the Empire.

Prior to this division, 2½ percent will be deducted for the Fresh Air Fund, Sir Arthur Pearson's first charity, which sends children from the slums for a holiday in the country.

Kirin Assembly Springs New Idea

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Dec. 30.—The Kirin Provincial Assembly, as the result of a brain wave, has telegraphed to the Government urging that the Russian interests in the Chinese Eastern Railway should be redeemed with the rouble notes in the possession of Chinese. The Assembly adds that the Russian notes in China are of the currency in which the Railway Company was organised and contends that the Russian could make no legal objection to payment in the Romanoff notes.

The Chiaotung Cabinet

BY JOSEF W. HALL

SEVERAL DAYS before any of our contemporaries had recorded the significance of the visits of Yeh Kung-chow to Mukden and Liang Shih-yi to Peking, THE CHINA PRESS announced that Liang Shih-yi, through arrangement with Chang Tso-lin, planned to ride into power at the head of the cohorts of the Chiaotung or Communications Clique.

The Christmas Day mandate announcing new Cabinet appointments marked the consummation of this plan in the carrying out of which the Chiaotung politicians have met surprisingly little obstruction.

What, then, is this Chiaotung Clique which now sits in the seat of authority, and who are the men who compose it?

The persistence of the Chiaotung Clique and its accession to power is concrete evidence that China is not yet past the political situation bequeathed to it by Yuan Shih-kai. The Chiaotung faction came into being early in the administration of Yuan. Because its members procured for themselves large revenue-producing interests in the government railways and banks, business as well as politics has held them together, and their faction has been more cohesive and possessed of more vitality than rival factions having nothing in common but political ambition.

In the first year of the Republic, Liang Shih-yi, a Cantonese who had done service to Yuan Shih-kai in pursuading his fellow-provincials to accept Yuan as President of the new republic, was made by Yuan Acting Vice-Minister of Communications. He had previously held the post of Director of Railways. Just at this time the struggle between Peking and the provinces for the control of the railways was in progress, and Liang took active part in encouraging the idea of state monopoly of the industry.

The great opportunities for wealth to a few men in gathering into their control the chief railway construction projects of the country did not escape Mr. Liang. With his successor in the office of Director of Railways, Mr. Yeh Kung-chow, also a Cantonese, he organised a "railway association" among the men who comprised the technical and financial management of the government railways of the time.

This association, which soon became known as the Chiaotung (meaning "Communications") Clique, saw to it that its members were liberally provided for in all railway concessions and construction projects. It contrived to keep its members in the highest official positions in the various railway administrations, and maintained a constant, and often successful, battle to keep its men in the Ministry of Communications. The chief aim of the clique has been, in the popular imagination, to procure wealth. Its first political activities were probably primarily designed to protect its financial interests. Which is uppermost in the clique today, business or politics, is hard to say.

The clique has been freely accused of utilising government communications revenues, in regard to which its members have maintained such a favorable position, in the enrichment of its members and the maintenance of its political prestige. It is true that the leaders of the clique, who began public life as student advisers, have amassed large private fortunes, although the reputed wealth of Liang Shih-yi himself is probably more fable than fact. Likely the fortunes of the Chiaotung leaders were obtained not so much by direct embezzlement as by an inspired insight into the large railway and industrial developments of the country.

Through control of the chief revenue producer, the railways, the Chiaotung Clique entrenched itself not only in the Ministry of Communications but also in the Ministry of Finance, and it has from time to time contrived to control that Ministry. Liang Shih-yi acted through Yuan's administration as general handyman. He was concurrently and successively Chief Secretary of the President's Office, Acting Minister of Finance, Privy Councillor during Yuan's brief revival of the monarchy, Director-General of the Customs Administration and Director-General of the Bureau of Taxes. He also held an important position in the Bank of Communications, and so consolidated his hold on that institution that, although accused of almost ruining it to finance his chief's monarchical scheme, he maintained his position. At present he is Chairman of the Board of Directors of the bank.

After Yuan Shih-kai's failure Liang was in the political background but was a powerful wire-puller. He spent some time in Hongkong and in Japan, where he promoted affiliations with Japanese financiers and statesmen. Preceding the election of Hsu as President, Liang returned to Peking, where he helped organise the Anfu Club which railroaded President Hsu's election through Parliament. Liang was elected Speaker of the Senate. He tried to act as conciliator between north and south, but Tuan Chi-jui in the north refused to listen to him, and his sanctions to speak for the south were very doubtful, as the Sun Yat-sen government had proscribed him. Since March, 1920, Liang Shih-yi has been Director-General of the Domestic Loan Administration, which post, however, has been a name only since Sir Francis Aglen took over the responsibility of providing for the amortisation of the domestic loan bonds. Mr. Liang, upon assumption of the Premiership, is 52 years old.

Yeh Kung-chow has been Liang Shih-yi's faithful confederate in the councils of the Chiaotung Clique. Yeh first got his name in the newspapers through his participation in the scheme to abolish foreign control in the Peking-Hankow railway. Railways have been his specialty, and Mr. Yeh has probably made himself more familiar with the technique of railway administration than any other high Chinese official. He is a small statured and active person, and an indefatigable questioner when after a bit of information. Yeh, as Liang, played a prominent part in the compromise between the southern revolutionaries and the northern militarists which put Yuan Shih-kai in power.

Mr. Yeh's attention was absorbed in the government railways constantly until 1913. He was fortunate in having the assistance of some of the best Chinese engineers and technical men, such as C. C. Wang. One of his policies was the engaging of foreign technical experts as advisers to the Ministry of Communications. During Yuan's last two years, Yeh Kung-chow was Vice-Minister of Communications. After the fall of Yuan he acted as secretary to Feng Kuo-chang. In the summer of 1917 he again came into prominence as the transportation expert on Tuan Chi-jui's staff during the latter's campaign against Chang Hsun, who had restored the Manchus. Tuan, upon assumption of the Premiership, made Yeh again Vice-Minister of Communications.

In 1918, enemies of the Chiaotung Clique having become too powerful, he resigned and received the title of High Industrial Commissioner under which he travelled extensively in Asia, America and Europe and compiled volumes of reports. After the overthrow of the Anfu Club he became Minister of Communications, but was forced out last May. Now he is back, with advantage that he does not, as before, have to fight the battles of the Chaotung Clique almost alone in the government. He will have a free hand, and numerous changes in government railway administration are expected.

Aside from Liang Shih-yi and Yeh Kung-chow the most influential Chiaotung leaders are Chu Chi-chien, a Kweichowese and an old protege of President Hsu Shu-chang, who was Minister of Communications under Yuan Shih-kai, and chief delegate to the farcical peace conference between north and south which sat in Shanghai in 1919; and Chow Tze-chi, who spent his younger days in consular service in America and returned to become Governor of Shantung and more recently Minister of Finance following the Anfu disruption. Chow was forced out of office last summer, along with Yeh Kung-chow. The chief benefit of these two men to their clique lies in their friendship with, and hold upon, President Hsu.

Note: In tomorrow's CHINA PRESS there will be a further discussion of the new cabinet by Mr. Hall, dealing with it from other angles.

"Aircraft, Not Navy Will Win Next War"

"When Forces And Weapons Are Transported At 200 Miles An Hour, The Country Caught Napping Will Go Out Of Existence," Says Lieut.-Col. C. R. Finch-Noyes, British Aviation Expert

By LIEUT. COL. FINCH-NOYES

The coming aerial war and the need for broad developments of air weapons are discussed in the following articles by Lieutenant-Colonel C. R. Finch-Noyes, D. S. O., A. F. C. (late R. A. F.) founder and organizer of the aircraft armament section of the Air Service who was responsible for initiating a great part of the armament of aircraft work in the late war.

London, Nov. 19.—Comments recently as to the nearness of the next war—an air war—make it not undesirable to lay before the public the necessity for pressing on keenly with experiments toward aircraft development and of providing against sudden demands for air personnel and material.

For this purpose I propose to give an idea to the extent to which aircraft may have become predominant in the next five years, provided that research and development in aeronautics and aircraft armament shall have been given the pre-eminence that they merit. If that pre eminence is not given in England it will assuredly be given in another country. The air played a very large part in the triumphant conclusion of the late war. In the next war it will play the predominant part.

Each week brings some new and startling development, and the limitation-of-weight-carrying difficulty, which was the one retarding factor in the sum of aircraft utilities, seems likely to be overcome in the near future.

Those who think war is over forever live in the paradise of fools. War is not over, and I venture to predict a submarine and aerial struggle, surpassing even the imagination of H. G. Wells, in the not too distant future.

The flying heavy gun—and by heavy gun I mean a gun throwing a projectile of 60 lbs. weight five miles—is not a dream. It is a fact today. Further, this 60-pounder should have been used in the late war. It was in existence. Such weapons, flying at 120 miles an hour and 15,000 feet in the air, could bombard a mark 10,000 yards horizontally distant, and be invisible to the object attacked.

The accuracy of such a gun puts bombing back into the Dark Ages. Bombing from a safe height can never be accurate within a margin of error which renders it practically useless except as a very effective method of terrorisation and devastation of an indiscriminate and widespread nature. Varying currents of wind deflect the bomb on its downward course, and the slightest inaccuracy in the direction of the aircraft, relative to the ground, or in its height from the ground, throws a bomb hundreds of yards from the mark.

With a gun, however, the precision of artillery can be attained

We have heard much of torpedo attack from the air and its limitations. At the present time torpedo attack from the air is a dangerous method of assailing an enemy, because the aircraft has to come within a few feet of the water and then fly into the teeth of the object attacked, but torpedoes have been dropped from seaplanes flying at a height of over 1,000 feet, by a method eliminating all danger of damage to the torpedo and much reducing the risk to the seaplane.

Experiments have been carried out very successfully with aerial torpedoes, and, by aerial torpedo, I mean an aeroplane controlled by a self-contained mechanism for stability, and by wireless waves from the ground or from another aircraft for direction and height—the pilot and passenger being replaced by a quarter of a ton of explosive. Such an aerial torpedo would be capable of being directed at a mark miles away at the will of the person despatching it.

In the air war of the future, as far as the land is concerned, it may be safely predicted that:

1. Long-distance and intensive bomb-dropping will be able to destroy any ordnance or munition factory indicated to be in existence.

2. Heavy gunnery from the air will render rail transport an impossibility by demolishing rails and bridges completely, and will prevent movements of armies on the land.

3. On the other hand, in an enemy country possessing insufficient and ineffective aircraft an army of men with equipment and machine guns could be landed at strategic points.

Even with our present experience, a "super" type aircraft could be constructed to carry at least forty men with machine guns and ammunition, and a second machine could carry five tons of provisions and equipment. Therefore 1,000 planes could land 20,000 men and 2,500 tons of provisions, etc., in an enemy country with a suddenness which would defy resistance, except from countering aircraft.

Twenty thousand men, fully equipped, landing and consolidating their positions, with fighting aircraft protecting them; heavy gun aircraft attacking any field artillery being brought to the attack of the invading army; machine gun aircraft attacking troops being brought up, and heavy bombing aircraft destroying lines and bridges would tend to "stampede" the invaded country into concentrating on attacking the first invaders, while other landings could be made with the same trooper aircraft in different places to disorganise the defense. Finally, having got the defensive forces "on the jump" and scattered, a reinforcement could be sent in overwhelming numbers to one of the units already landed, and by pushing that unit home toward the objective gain the objective.

Research, carried out with imagination and an adequate expenditure of money saved from other sources, could produce in a very short time aircraft that would outride on the water or in the air any weather in which an ocean-going destroyer can live at present, and that would be capable of destroying surface craft or land forts and forces, so that the air will automatically and naturally eventually take the place of the navy; and an army, except possibly to land in a country not possessing aircraft, will be useful only for policing and holding territory already won by aircraft attack.

Exactly as at present we have battleships, light cruisers, destroyers, etc., on the sea so shall we have battleships, cruisers, and destroyers in the air.

Aircraft and submarines will make safety on the surface of the sea and land impossible. The existence of commercial surface craft in the next war will be very short by reason of air attack.

I can see no counter for aircraft except aircraft, and I can see no hope for those on the sea or land when faced with the danger from above. In the case of the ship there is the added danger from under the sea. The influence of aircraft on warfare is such that, until we get some form of death-dealing which is swifter and more efficient than aircraft, aviation is the only effective method of distributing death and destruction.

Aviation, if given the pre-eminence it merits as regards money, personnel and control, led by persons of imagination and energy, will mean triumph; if neglected disaster will follow in the next war as inevitably as the night follows the day.

The blow will fall with the suddenness of a flash of lightning, and the only declaration of war will probably be a bombing attack on the capital, in conjunction with the destruction of bridges and communication, the landing by air of thousands of fully equipped troops, the attack by torpedo and heavy gun-carrying aircraft on warships and commercial vessels, the mining of channels by aircraft, and the systematic and intensive dropping of enormous numbers of poison gas bombs to windward of areas in which it is desired to eliminate life.

In fact, the war in the air will embrace all the offensive methods of the late war carried out at ten times the speed—that is, at a speed with which only other aircraft can cope effectively.

When forces and weapons are transported at 200 miles an hour to the attack there will be no time to recover. The country caught napping and unprepared will be out of political and military existence in a matter of hours, if not out of physical existence by poison gas and high explosive delivered by aircraft.

Let it not be forgotten that the use of poison gas by aircraft is not influenced or restricted by the direction of the wind. Aircraft can drop these bombs to utilise the wind on the earth's surface, in whatever direction it happens to be blowing, to drive the fumes across the objective.

Also great mistakes are often made in measuring doses for tiny patients. Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian medicine for Children of all ages, meet every difficulty. They are guaranteed to be absolutely harmless and free from opiates. They are so soft that they fall into powder at very slight pressure, forming an ideal dose for Infants.

Baby's Own Tablets are pleasant to the taste; slightly laxative, comforting and digestive—a specific for feverishness, constipation, diarrhoea and worms. At the time of teething they act like magic, giving painless sleep and easy teething.

Obtainable from chemists, also at 60 cents the vial, post free, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Garrett P. Serviss On Man's Mind As A Master-Tool

Mentality Sees, Hears And Feels In Cases Where Ordinary Senses Are Powerless

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

It is interesting to consider how confidently science has learned to deal with myriads of things which individually cannot be seen or directly apprehended by any of our senses. The mind is like a master-tool: it can be eye and ear and nose and finger, performing the functions of all of those organs when they themselves are helpless to do, or perceive, anything whatever. If this were not so modern science could not exist.

Take for instance the subject of visibility. There are three stages below the limit of the utmost powers of eyesight on which science moves perfectly at its ease.

First is the stage of the molecule, the smallest physical subdivision of matter. Everything about us is made up of molecules, but we cannot see them as we see the bricks making a wall. The piece of ebony that I hold in my hand is composed of molecules, but if I should magnify a bit of it with the most powerful microscope in existence I should still be unable to see any of the molecules. I could split a speck of floating dust with a club.

If a billiard ball were magnified to the size of the earth—adapting an illustration of Lord Kelvin's—its molecules would appear of about the same size that the billiard ball itself presents to the naked eye!

Yet the eye of the mind sees molecules so clearly that science handles them as familiarly as the schoolboy handles his baseball. There are differences in the sizes of molecules, according to the kind and number of elemental atoms of which they are made up, and particles may be indirectly seen by setting them afloat in the air and flooding them with light, whereupon a microscopic glory of infinitesimal rays is cast around each of them, revealing its location as a light in the sky at night reveals where an unseen city lies. But science has another way of seeing the molecules indirectly, and that is by means of the characteristic physical forms that they impress upon the bodies made up by their combinations.

For instance, in a crystal, although the molecules are not visible as individuals, yet even the naked eye can see them by wholesale in their array, as it sees a column or a square of soldiers placed at a great distance in the landscape, where the separate men are inseparately blended into lines and masses, although the imagination, instructed by sound inferences from observed facts, makes no mistake in picturing to itself the forms and attitudes of the individual soldiers.

Similarly, science indirectly but surely beholds the atoms, which belong to a stage of invisibility lower than that of the molecules; and again, away below the stage of the atoms, its inferential vision reaches to that occupied by the amazingly minute constituents of the atoms called electrons. In the case of the electrons, which are thousands of times smaller even than the atoms, an indirect method of viewing them has been found, resembling that mentioned with regard to particles as small as the larger sorts of molecules.

This is illustrated in Professor Millikan's famous experiment, where floating particles of excessive minuteness, rendered indirectly visible by the minute aureoles of light that they spread about themselves, were caused to pick up or to separate from wandering electrons. According as one of these particles united with or parted from an electron, it moved up or down, and by these movements the invisible electron was revealed to the mental vision of the observer, somewhat as a person familiar with aeronautics might affirm that he had seen a sandbag drop from a balloon when the latter suddenly shot upward in the air. He would have seen it only with the mind's eye, but, in view of his knowledge of the governing conditions, his intellectual vision of the sandbag would be as trustworthy as the actual sight of it falling.

Thus the mind extends, exalts and supplements the powers of the senses; but in doing so does it or does it not prove itself to be something existing independently of them?

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

BREAD TO BE PROUD OF

BAKE-RITE

And we are proud of the success which Bake-Rite Bread has attained in the few weeks it has been on the market. Already other bakers are improving their standards, but Bake-Rite took the lead from the start and will maintain it because Bake-Rite Bread is made by foreign bakers, from imported flour, cooked by electricity and the whole process of manufacture from start to finish is spotlessly pure. We will be glad to show you how we make it.
BEGINNING in January we shall deliver Bake-Rite Bread at the house. Phone or leave your orders—

COLLEGE MEN FROM AMERICA FORM NEW CLUB

A new American Returned Students' Club of Shanghai, which already has an enrollment of about 150, has been organized and expects shortly to be installed in permanent and spacious club rooms here.

The organisation scheme was perfected at a meeting held last Saturday, when a large and enthusiastic group of returned students gathered for the purpose on the third floor of the China Industrial Bank Building, which is to be the club's home.

The former American Returned Students' Club was merged about two years ago with the European Returned Students' organisations to form what was known as the Western Returned Students' Union. This latter organisation, however, has practically passed out of existence during the past year.

In forming the new association it was felt that in order to make it permanent a headquarters and rooms must be secured so that members might meet easily and frequently and club activities might be carried on. Through the efforts of Mr. H. Y. Moh, the cotton magnate, and others the entire third floor of the China Industrial Bank building, P-60 Nanking Road, has been secured and will be fitted up so as to include a suite of spacious and well furnished club rooms, including reading rooms, dining rooms, offices, etc. Each member will pay an initiation fee to help equip and furnish the club and monthly dues will be assessed to defray current expenses of maintenance.

At the formal organisation meeting Dr. John Y. Lee was closen chairman pro tem and a provisional constitution was presented by Mr. T. M. Yu and was adopted. The following officers were then elected to serve until the next annual meeting: president, Mr. H. Y. Moh; vice-presidents, Messrs. S. C. Chu and S. T. K. Loh; secretary, Dr. John Y. Lee; assistant secretary, Dr. W. S. New; treasurer, Mr. P. T. Hsi; assistant treasurer, Mr. Y. M. Shen; business manager, Mr. Paul B. K. Young; assistant business manager, Mr. T. M. Yu.
